

SAMUEL LEVY PASSES AWAY

Pioneer Cigar Manufacturer Dies After Acute Illness.

ROSE BY HIS OWN EFFORTS

STARTED AS POOR BOY AND AMASSED TWO FORTUNES.

Samuel Levy, proprietor of the Sam Levy Cigar Manufacturing company, 713 South Main street, died of diabetes at 7:20 o'clock last night at his home, 152 West Third South street, after an acute illness of four weeks.

Sam Levy, as he called himself and as everybody called him, was one of the best known citizens and business men of Utah. He numbered his friends by the thousands in all the vast stretch of country extending from New York to San Francisco. He was born in London, England, April 16, 1841, the same day and year that King Edward began his earthly career. At 12 years of age the desire for adventure took such a hold upon his mind that he resolved to start out on a tour of the world. A few weeks after reaching this conclusion he found himself in New York City among strangers and with a very small supply of ready cash.

For the next few years he had a strenuous time, and many were the adverse circumstances with which he was compelled to contend. But he persevered in his determination to get on in the world. Realizing that he must have an occupation that would enable him to earn his living and accumulate something for the proverbial rainy day, he learned the cigar-making trade. Before he was out of his apprenticeship he had acquired a reputation for being one of the swiftest and best workmen in the city in which he then lived.

Begins Business For Himself.

In 1865 Mr. Levy, having saved several hundred dollars, went to Council Bluffs, Ia., where he went into business with a man named Parego, the firm name being Parego & Levy. During the seven years the partnership continued they built up a large business, manufacturing and jobbing cigars. They also handled tobacco. A fire destroyed their store and manufacturing plant and left Mr. Levy almost "broke." He then came to Salt Lake, that was in 1872, and he remained here until his death. His factory and store have been at 171 South Main street since 1882.

Mr. Levy was the leading cigar manufacturer and jobber of Salt Lake and of Utah up to 1890. In that year he lost over $200,000 that he had invested in mining ventures. Some of his losses have since been recovered, and he died possessed of money and property of an estimated value of between $30,000 and $40,000.

He was married in Salt Lake thirty years ago to Miss Maria Wertheim of New Orleans and they had six children, four boys and two daughters, the eldest 23 and the youngest 14 years of age. Mrs. Levy and all the children are living. He was a member of the B'nai B'rith and of Mount Moriah lodge No. 2 of Masons. The funeral arrangements will be made today.

Mr. Levy suffered from diabetes during the past two years, but was able to be out and to attend to business up to four weeks ago. He left no will, but his property is in such shape that no trouble is expected in administering upon it. The business at 171 South Main street will be continued by his son, Joseph Levy.
